Local Advocate Provides Help For Those With Special Needs Through Support, Financial Education

Rick Knight

Anyone who refers to their role as Chief Servant Officer instead of CEO must have a pretty strong passion for helping those in need. That is exactly why we loved getting to know Rick Knight, founder of the Servant Financial Group, a financial services firm dedicated to providing financial planning solutions to the special needs community.

Prior to realizing how underserved and marginalized the special needs community was, and starting Servant Financial Group, Rick worked for some of the largest financial services companies in the industry as an advisor and benefit consultant, with companies Mass Mutual and MetLife. For more than two decades, Rick Knight dedicated his career to helping people with all types of financial matters, including life insurance planning, retirement and pension plans, IRA rollovers, endowment start-ups, and mutual funds. He has written and published five books covering various financial planning issues and concerns, including:

The Good Harvest Plan
Black and Green - What Black Folks
Should Really Know About
Financial Planning
The Proverb Plan
Exit Strategy - How to protect and rebuild your retirement portfolio
after the recession
Genesis Financial Literacy Work
Book

It wasn't until he met the adult son of his long-time client that he realized how much information was missing from a family's financial plan. The mother had never considered filling Rick in on the fact that her son, who was not able to live on his own, had special needs and she didn't consider figuring out a financial plan for him, too. In fact, according to Rick's research, 88% of parents who have children with special needs have not set up a trust to preserve eligibility for benefits like Medicaid or SSI.

Rick wanted to change that.

He started Y.A.N.A. Nation, a first of its kind radio show exclusively created for the purpose of empowering and educating the special needs community to target financial education, financial inclusion, and economic empowerment.

It is also a platform to exchange ideas; economically empower; promote and advocate employment inclusiveness; fundraise; educate; and celebrate the special needs community.

And since the U.S. Census Bureau reports that 20% of Americans between the ages of 16 and 64 suffer some form of physical, mental, or emotional impairment and that one in every 26 American families are raising children with a disability, Rick is hoping that Y.A.N.A. Nation will continue to advance ideas that will empower the special needs community, a community that has horribly marginalized.

To listen to this fantastic show, tune in every Saturday from 10:30-11:00am EST on Love 860 WAEC Atlanta or listen live online by downloading the apps Love 860, iHeart Radio, or Tunein Radio. You can also get involved with his or enlist his help with your own financial planning by visiting www.servantfinancialgroup.com or by calling 404.309.4925.

CASE OF INTEREST

Our client is still struggling to collect compensation from his own insurance company three and a half years after being hit by a drunk driver. The other driver pulled out in front of our client on Highway 20, causing the collision, and was cited for failure to stop at a stop sign and DUI for a blood alcohol level over two times the legal limit. Despite very clear liability, our client still has not been paid any compensation for his injuries under his uninsured motorist policy. This is especially frustrating for him since he understood the importance of this additional coverage, as many insurance policies do not cover the staggering cost of medical bills after an accident. Our client purchased the extra coverage, was struck by someone without enough insurance to cover the accident, but his own insurance company is still not holding up their end of the agreement. We filed a lawsuit against the company and are working to get them to pay what our client is rightfully owed.

Raving Review of the Month

"These guys saved our family a lot of time, money, and headaches! They came to us and arranged for medical treatment. I was in a motorcycle accident and they got me a maximum settlement for my personal injury claim." - Michael S.
